

I think that cell phone users should be able to keep the same phone number no matter what company they are with and switch to. Not to do so creates mass confusion and must make somebody some extra money--because it sure doesn't simplify anything